California Supreme Court to Hear UCSF-Laurel Heights Appeal

The California State Supreme Court last week agreed to review the July 9 ruling of the California Court of Appeal which declared our environmental impact report for the Laurel Heights campus to be inadequate.

The Appelate Court reversed a decision by the San Francisco Superior Court in September 1986 which had upheld the EIR.

Although the Appelate Court held in July that the EIR should have contained more detailed information, it did not find that UCSF's research activities have ever posed any risk to the environment or to the health of campus employees or the community, according to UCSF attorney Ethan Schulman.

Meanwhile, on our Parnassus campus, the Staff Advisory Committee, composed of staff employees who wanted to get involved in the Laurel Heights issue, has formed subcommittees, including ones for neighborhood outreach and employee education. Material now is being prepared to help educate members of the committee on the various issues facing the campus. The committee is being chaired by Vice Chancellor, Personnel and Student Services Thena Trygstad, with assistance from Barbara Atkinson, our new community and government relations director on campus, who is coordinating the subcommittees.

Tomkins Lecture & Concert Oct. 16: Sexual Evolution & Schumann

How sex has evolved through the ages will be discussed by John Maynard Smith, BSc, at the twelfth annual Gordon Tomkins Lecture on Friday, October 16, from 3 to 5 p.m. in Cole Hall.

As is the tradition, the second half of the program will be a musical performance. This year, soprano Jane Marsh and pianist Robin Sutherland will perform works by Robert Schumann and Gustav Mahler.

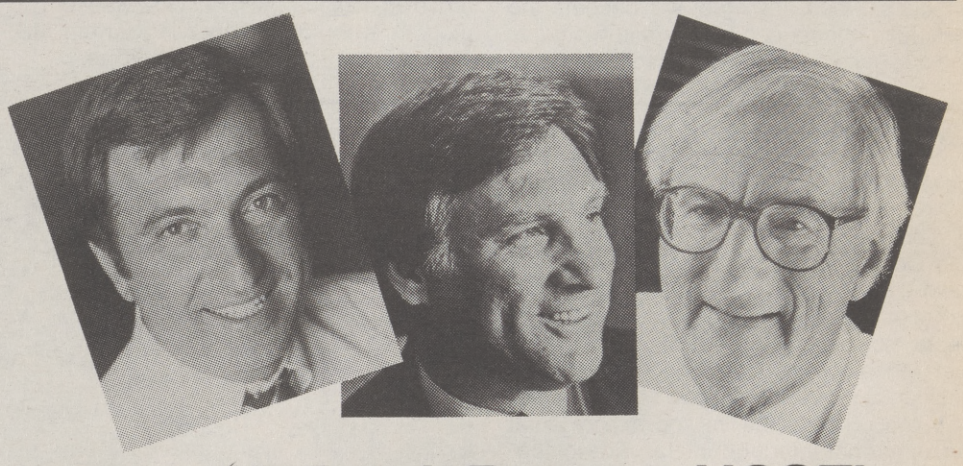

Professor emeritus of biology at the University of Sussex, England, Smith graduated from Cambridge in 1941 with a degree in engineering and spent the next six years designing airplanes until he decided they were "much too noisy and old-fashioned." He then went on to study zoology and became a lecturer at University College in London where he remained for 14 years.

Smith is known today as one of the world's leading theorists on evolution. He is the author of seven publications, including Mathematical Ideas in Biology (1968), in which he introduced the idea of evolutionary stable strategy—ESS, and Evolution of Sex (1978), where he discusses why sexual modes of reproduction predominate over other means.

A native of San Francisco, soprano Jane Marsh made front-page headlines around the world in 1966 when she became the first singer to win the Gold Medal of Moscow's Tchaikovsky International Competition. That same year she also received New York City's Handel Medallion and the Presidential Medal presented by President Lyndon Johnson.

A Julliard graduate, Robin Sutherland has been the principal pianist of the San Francisco Symphony since 1973. He has performed with the Symphony for 11 seasons, including its 1973 and 1987 tours of Europe and the Soviet Union and its 1975 tour of Japan. Among Sutherland's many honors is the Albert Elkus Award from the San Francisco Conservatory of Music.

Gordon Tomkins was professor and vice chair of the UCSF Department of Biochemistry and Biophysics from 1969 until his death in 1975. In addition to his scientific work in the study of hormone action, Tomkins was an accomplished classical and jazz musician. The lecture and concert commemorate his pioneering role in molecular biology and his leadership in developing basic science at UCSF.

Agnos, Molinari, Boas at UCSF's Candidates Forum Oct. 19

Three of the leading contenders in the San Francisco race for Mayor—Assemblyman Art Agnos, Supervisor John Molinari, and former Chief Administrative Officer Roger Boas—will be on campus Monday, October 19, at noon in Cole Hall for a "Candidates Forum," sponsored by the Academic Senate.

At the forum, each of the candidates will speak briefly and then will respond to questions submitted in advance, followed by a 25-minute question and answer period from the floor. Henry J. (Pete) Ralston III, professor and chair, anatomy, will serve as moderator.

The forum will be telecast live to HSW 300 to an overflow crowd of faculty, staff and students, and to the CED Commons Room. It also will be videotaped to be shown at SFGH the following day, October 20, at noon in Building 30, Room 208 solarium.

This is the first time that the Academic Senate has sponsored such a forum. "At least 7,000 UCSF employees live in SF and almost 4,000 students, house staff and postdocs. And our families live here. So, we really make up a large part of this city's citizenship," said Pete Ralston, chair of the Senate. "This is a great way to let the candidates express their views and for us to let them know what our concerns are."

Plan to attend the forum and find out how these candidates feel about our campus. What are their views on our Laurel Heights struggle? How would they utilize UCSF's state-of-the-art resources? How do they feel our campus fits into the picture of city growth? What would they do to help support our AIDS research?

Here are a few facts about the candidates that you may not know:

Agnos started out as a San Francisco social worker. He says he really began to understand how powerless people can feel in 1973 when he became the sixth victim of the Zebra killers. He is known for designing California's historic welfare reform and recently being a leading lawmaker in the fight against AIDS.

Molinari has wanted to be mayor since he was a teenager. He has been on the Board of Supervisors for the last 16 years, serving as president for five terms. When he first got to City Hall, he was a Republican, but by the mid-70s switched to the Democratic side. He has worked on AIDS funding, passage of the Downtown Plan and bringing the USS Missouri to San Francisco.

A city supervisor from 1962 to 1973, Boas was chief administrative officer for San Francisco for 10 years. His accomplishments include overseeing the $2.5 million Clean Water Project, which was completed for one-third the estimated cost, construction of the $128 million Moscone Center, plus solving the City's garbage disposal problems. He also helped stop the freeway development in the panhandle of Golden Gate Park.

So, bring your questions on what you consider important issues and decide for yourself which candidate will make the best mayor.

Open Discussions on AIDS in the Workplace Oct. 14

Two open panel discussions on AIDS in the workplace will be held on Wednesday, October 14, in Cole Hall at noon and repeated at 5 p.m. Staff employees, faculty, house staff and students are encouraged to attend.

The panel, which will be led by Richard K. Root, MD, chair of the Department of Medicine, will review current policies and procedures for the care of AIDS patients as well as address any other AIDS related issues brought up by those attending the meetings.

The meetings are in response to an announcement last week that a health care worker at SFGH had contracted the AIDS virus from an accidental needle stick. This is the first case in San Francisco where a health care worker has been infected with the virus in an on-the-job setting. At the present time the health care worker does not Hands Across the Campus—Your Participation Counts!

The campus is gearing up for the next United Way Campaign, to be held November 2 to 13. Part of the activities will include several raffle drawings from the Med Center and the Schools of Dentistry, Pharmacy and Medicine.

What's new this year at United Way? Well, in response to concerns from our campus and other campaign participants, United Way has established a special AIDS Crisis Fund, to which you can designate all or part of your contribution.

Our donor representatives have been chosen from all areas of the campus and they will be treated to a luncheon on Wednesday, October 28. Their invitations now are in the mail. If you're a donor rep, remember to RSVP to the luncheon by Tuesday, October 20.

See the next issue of Newsbreak for all the details, with a feature story on School of Pharmacy Dean Jere Goyan, this year's chair of the UCSF United Way campaign.

Cheng Scholars: The Best

Eight promising medical scholars from China now are at UCSF receiving training in biomedical sciences research and clinical specialities through the new Cheng Scholars Program. The Chinese Ministry of Public Health and UCSF together selected these scholars, whom they feel will become the best researchers and teachers in China, as the first generation of a new tradition as part of the role the campus is playing in the Pacific Rim.

Here for the year are (left to right) Wang Zhenhau, Wen Ping, Liu Hong, Gao Shu-wei, Xiao Xiao, Shi Yufei, and Cao Ming. Not shown is Liu De-pei, who is scheduled to arrive on campus in the next few weeks. The program is coordinated by Wing K. Kam, MD, PhD, assistant professor of medicine.

have AIDS.

According to a statement issued by John E. Conte, Jr., MD, director of UCSF's Infection Control Unit, "UCSF faculty at SFGH have been conducting a study to track the risk of contracting HIV infection through accidental exposure for the last six years. During that period over 800 subjects with over 500 accidental needlesticks have been studied.

"Although this is the first known accidental occupational infection in San Francisco, there have been 12 other infections among health care workers reported throughout the world since 1981. From current information, the risk of infection from needlesticks appears to be approximately 1 in 800. There are no known cases of occupational infection at the Medical Center at UCSF.

"The risk of transmission in the health care setting is very small, but it is real. This confirms our belief in the importance of preventive measures and reaffirms the need for health care workers to follow strictly the established infection control guidelines.

"Infection control guidelines for working with AIDS were developed by the UCSF Infection Control Committee in 1983 in concert with the affiliated SFGH and VAMC. Subsequently, these guidelines were adopted by hospitals all over the country. The basic principles of these guidelines have remained the same, and in July 1987 they were extended to apply to all patients. A task force composed of representatives of the three medical centers continually reviews the guidelines and modifies them as new information becomes available."

UCSF Meets the Challenge

Radiology's Don Toothman, Dennis Orwig, Michael Dake, Gary Shaw and Mike Rizzo were part of the Manufacturers Hanover Challenge which drew some 50 UCSF runners in a 3.5 mile race along SF financial district streets. This year the Chancellor's Office gave $500 to defray the cost of t-shirts and entry fees. Fourteen medals were awarded to UCSF runners. We took fourth and fifth in men's teams, fourth in women's, and fifth in co-ed. Plus two of our people placed fifth overall: Joan Coleman of Clinical Services and Harold Kuphaldt of Physical Therapy.

Loeliger, Forman

Third- and second-year medical students Scott Loeliger and Stuart Forman are the recipients of SmithKline Beckman Medical Perspectives Fellowships for 1987.

Loeliger, a student in the UCSF/Berkeley Joint Medical Program and a former Peace Corps volunteer, was awarded $6,250 to fund his study of the development and implementation of primary health care in the Fiji Islands.

Forman received $3,274 in support of his research on the effects of family structure, emotional and behavioral autonomy, and maturational timing on male and female adolescent risk-taking behavior. Forman is conducting his study in conjunction with the Teen Clinic in the Ambulatory Care Center at UCSF.

Loeliger and Forman received two of only 29 fellowships funded by the National Fund for Medical Education in 1987.

New Clinical Nurse Scholars

Mikkel Aaland

Munet-Vilaro, Suave, Lewis

With the recent grant of $284,196 from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation for the continued funding of the Clinical Nurse Scholars Program, the School of Nursing has accepted three new candidates into the program. Currently beginning two-year fellowships are Linda L. Lewis, PhD; Frances Munet-Vilaro, PhD; and Mary Jane Suave, DNS.

Lewis, who received her PhD from the University of Illinois at Chicago earlier this year, did her dissertation research on premenstrual syndrome. Lewis will continue her PMS studies at UCSF, focusing on the relationship between brain neurotransmitters, hormones, and mood/emotion/behavior changes.

Munet-Vilaro received her PhD from the University of Washington in Seattle in 1984, and since that time has served as assistant professor in the School of Nursing at the University of Texas at Austin. During the next two years, she will conduct a study of the neurological functioning of Anglo-American and Hispanic children receiving treatment for cancer.

Suave received her Doctor of Nursing Science degree from UCSF in 1984, and since 1980 has served as a clinical research nurse, coordinating antiarrhythmic drug studies at UCSF. Her research will focus on the incidence and severity of cognitive deficits in survivors of sustained life-threatening ventricular tachyarrythmias, and the impact of these deficits on long-term recovery.

The Clinical Nurse Scholars Program is administered by Marylin Dodd, PhD, interim chair of the Department of Physiological Nursing.

Benefits/Personnel

Pre-Open Enrollment Special: A Health Insurance Fair

If you're shopping the options for health plans in advance of the open enrollment period (November 1 to 25), take note: The Benefits Office is sponsoring a Health Insurance Fair. Here are the dates:

- Monday, October 26: Noon to 1:30 p.m., CED Hartsook Room;
- Wednesday, October 28: Noon to 1:30 p.m., Cole Hall.

A "health insurance fair" can be defined as an information-gathering session featuring representatives from all the health plans offered by UCSF. This includes Heals, Health Net, Kaiser, Maxi-Care (this used to be Health America) and Prudential. The representatives will be giving short presentations about their plans, answering your questions, and hanging around before and after the above times to answer more questions and hand out materials. The Benefits Office did this last year for the first time and people found it very helpful, so here it is again. If you can't make it, call them (x61400) about borrowing a video. They'll be videotaping the October 28 session.

In weeks to come there will be more information on open enrollment, both here and in your mailbox—but for now, just keep in mind that for most employees, the period between November 1 and 25 is the one time during the year when you can switch plans and/or make new choices, according to the options offered.

Here's Help for Your Problems

If you've been having a problem in your personal life or at work, and you don't know what to do about it, here's a place to turn: The Employee Assistance Program (EAP).

This is a brand new program. It offers educational, consultation and referral services. And it's being provided as a benefit to staff, faculty and students.

In this column next issue, we'll introduce Joe Mattox, PhD, director of EAP and a new member of the UCSF staff; and go into more detail on the program itself. Meanwhile, here's the phone number: x68279. They'll be taking calls beginning Monday, October 12.

Savings, Investment Opportunities

Attend one of the following meetings and find out about the new investment and savings opportunities available through the Voluntary Contribution Plan, including a new investment option, Fidelity Investments:

- Monday, October 12: Cole Hall, noon to 1:30 p.m.
- Monday, November 9: CED Hartsook Room, noon to 1:30 p.m.

Update on A&PS, Open Enrollment

Do the answers to either of the following questions interest you?

- What's happening with the A&PS program?
- What new benefits are available during open enrollment?

If yes, then attend the UCSF Staff Council meeting on Tuesday, October 20, from noon to 2 p.m. in S 664.

In part one of the program, Assistant Vice Chancellor for Staff Personnel Services Chick Francis and the A&PS Task Force Committee chairs will bring you up to date on the status of the A&PS personnel program.

Part two will consist of a brief update on new benefits/changes to be offered during open enrollment, including a legal expense insurance plan and a new dental program replacing Safeguard. The Benefits Office will present more detailed open enrollment seminars at a later date.

How are the Funds Performing?

For those invested in the additional savings programs, here are the latest unit values and monthly factors (as of August 31):

- Accumulation Unit Values

Parking: Hot Topic at "Meet the Director" Sessions

Now that several groups of employees have met with Bill Kerr during the "Meet the Director" sessions over the past few months, it's clear there are several topics employees consistently want to discuss. You probably can guess them: Parking, budget cuts, salaries, elevators, security and CED matters.

While numerous and varied other subjects surface at each session, these are the six big ones. What this says is that people want information on these topics. Thus, maybe it would be a good idea to consistently include in Medsounds general information on each of these areas. We'll start with parking.

What can be done about the parking situation?

That's generally the way the parking issue comes up. Bill usually responds with something like "The fact of parking life here at UCSF is that there are not enough convenient parking places for everyone who would like to drive his or her car."

It's not a problem unique to UCSF, he observes. It's a problem shared by employers/commuters all over the city.

Furthermore, the opportunity to expand the number of parking areas is almost nonexistent. Every idea for parking expansion has been explored and re-explored, says Bill. But opposition from the neighborhoods and other inhibitors have rendered every idea unfeasible.

The logical solution has been to create a number of practical and economical driving alternatives, including the following programs offered through the Transportation Services Office (x61511):

- The Vanpools for Peninsula and East Bay commuters
- The Buspools for Marin commuters
- The Carpool service, which matches you up with other potential poolers
- The Shuttles, so you won't need your car to get to work-related locations during the day
- An emergency transportation service for those who no longer commute by single-occupant vehicles

And of course, there's Muni, whom we remind periodically how much the staff depends on reliable scheduling.

Okay, that's the basics. In the next issue we'll talk about some of the improvements and changes that have come about largely as a result of the suggestions made by last year's employee Parking/Transportation Task Force, as well as input from the Meet the Director sessions.

"Meet the Director" Topics from Sept. 22

Check your departmental bulletin board for a summary of the discussion on these and other topics:

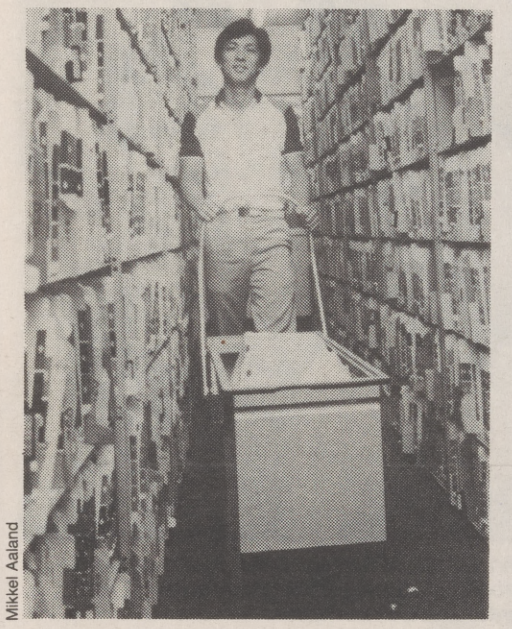

- Salary increases: When, how much, and what is the decision-making process
- Closing elevators for nighttime cleaning
- Extending the shuttle service to Children's Hospital
- Rewarding people for unused sick leave
- Expanding CED conference areas
- Establishment of smoke-free campus
- Poor ventilation in echocardiography and other areas
- Pedestrian bridge across Parnassus

The point Nursing Administration's Cheryl Weisker would like to drive home about the van she rides every day from Alameda is that currently there are six openings for riders. There also are four openings in the San Carlos vanpool, six for Berkeley and eight for Pacifica.

How Harlan Wong Solved the Problem of the Carts Without Handles

Mikkel Aaland

This is Harlan Wong, an employee in the coding unit of Medical Records. You notice his cart has a large handle. For years the Medical Records staff has been using carts like this to tote files around the department. Up until a few weeks ago, however, the carts didn't have handles. If you check the height of the cart, you can imagine the stoop-down posture previously required to push it around. A little tiresome, to say the least.

"I kept telling myself, there had to be a better way," says Harlan. But when he approached administrative assistant Lynda Church and they looked through the catalogs, they couldn't find anything that would work.

Thus, they took their problem to carpenter Vince Carlisle in Physical Plant. Vince promptly fashioned handles for the carts—and even made them removable, to make it easier to load and unload the files.

The handles are working out fine. In fact, so pleased are Harlan's colleagues with this new development, they made him the subject of a special presentation during a recent get-together, gave him tickets to a Giants game, and dubbed him the first recipient of what now is to be an on-going staff recognition program.

What does Harlan think about all this? "It seemed like a pretty simple solution to an obvious problem. I guess it just took someone doing something about it."

Could this story go a step further? Remember the guy who invented the shopping cart around the turn of the century? "An obvious problem with a simple solution," he said. He got a patent and made a million. Is there a big demand for high-handled rolling file cabinets?

The Chairs are Here, Let's Celebrate

Since when is the arrival of furniture such cause for celebration?

Let us fill you in on a little history.

Three years ago, it was decided that the Gastrointestinal (GI) Clinic should move from the fifth floor of ACC to the fourth, to be situated among the General Medicine clinics. They picked up and moved without fanfare.

Meanwhile, it became clear that the General Medicine practices needed to be expanded, and they would need the space on the fourth floor that GI was calling its somewhat new home. It was decided that GI should move back upstairs.

They moved the end of June into a newly renovated space on the fifth floor, again no drum rolls. At least, not at that moment—it seemed fitting to wait for the furnishings to arrive before they threw a housewarming party.

Since June they have been getting by with makeshift file cabinets and borrowed chairs (they left all their previous furnishings behind on the fourth floor).

Then, two weeks ago, they received word the furniture was ready and on its way. They have their furniture now. They're officially moved in. Let's say they're settled for good. Time to celebrate!

The United Way Raffle Was So Much Fun...

...We're going to do it again this year! If you weren't around for last year's campaign, here's what happened: The Med Center management staff donated prizes toward a raffle, and the name of every Med Center employee who made a donation went into a hat for the drawing. If you were indeed around last year, then you remember that many of the management staff came up with some strange and wonderful prizes. Now you're wondering what on earth people will produce this year. Look in the next issue of Medsounds, and hopefully a list will have materialized. Meanwhile, make a reminder of these dates somewhere conspicuous: November 2 through 13. Those are the dates of this year's United Way Campaign.

Look Out! Here Comes Speedy Magana

Mikkel Aaland

A word of warning if you're headed for 6 Moffitt: If Enrique Magana, the hallway hot-rodder, is on the loose, keep to the walls. Ever since Enrique's godfather brought him this fat-wheeled supercycle, the small patient from Fresno finds it to be the fastest way to get from his room in the Pediatric Clinical Research Center (PCRC) to the playroom. With Enrique are PCRC nurses Anne Senner and Mary Jane Ott.

Come to the Med Sci Lobby During Pastoral Care Weeks, Oct. 19-31

The national observance is actually one week long, from October 25 through 31, says Med Center chaplain Rod Seeger. But since they were able to secure the display cases for two whole weeks, they decided to stretch out the occasion a little. "They" represents the Med Center Chaplain Services, which Rod supervises, and the department's two collaborators for this observance, the Landberg Center for Health and Ministry and the St. John of God Newman Center.

What you will encounter in the Med Sci lobby during these two weeks is (1) a display showing the different kinds of pastoral care provided by the three organizations named above, (2) a videotape—put together by Rod and Biomedical Equipment's Paul Tevlin—showing the patient care side of pastoral care, and (3) "People Making Connections" buttons (while supply lasts), which the sponsors are inviting you to wear to help mark the observance.

You're also invited to attend a conference, "Physical/Sexual Abuse—Our Pastoral Response," on Thursday, October 29, from 1 to 4 p.m. in Toland Hall. The conference has been planned for community clergy, but is open to all interested individuals. The focus will be on the impact of abuse, early warning of the presence of abuse, and basic interventions and resources. Call x62961 for more information.

Supervise Volunteers?

Do you supervise volunteers? Have you attended one of the training sessions required for those who utilize volunteers in their departments? Did you know there's a session coming up on Monday, October 26? It starts at noon. Come to M 80. Bring your lunch. Call Sharon Udovich to sign up, x61196.

Med Center Grant for "Health Notes"

The Med Center has contributed a grant to KQED, Channel 9, to continue production of "Health Notes."

"Health Notes" is a ten-part series of five-minute reports on current health education and medical research issues. Hosted by UCSF's David Watts, associate clinical professor, medicine, the series features interviews with top Bay Area medical researchers reporting significant findings in their fields. Topics range from sports medicine and anorexia to headaches and the pros and cons of home diagnostic tests.

Each "Health Notes" report is broadcast several times locally on KQED during selected "windows" between major prime time programs and is presented on 160 public TV stations nationwide.

The series will begin with "Mind and Healing" to be aired the evenings of Sunday, October 18, 6:25 p.m.; Tuesday, October 20, 7:55 p.m.; Saturday, October 24, 7:55 p.m.; Sunday, October 25, 2:55 p.m. and 10:55 p.m.; and Monday, October 26, 7:55 p.m.

David Watts also hosts the KQED radio series, "Here's to Your Health," and "House Calls."

Here's to a Good Time!

The Med Center's First In Vitro Fertilization Mom Returns from Alaska to Have Triplets

The headline pretty much says it all. In February of 1985, Evan Marie Falconer made history when she was born here at the Med Center: It was the first birth in San Francisco as a result of "in vitro" fertilization.

A couple of weeks ago, her mother returned here all the way from Alaska for another birth—but this time to triplets!

This was Sharon Falconer's second pregnancy achieved through the Med Center's in vitro fertilization program. Last year the Falconers moved from the Bay Area to Alaska where Sharon's husband, Bruce, an attorney, accepted a position in Anchorage. But they wanted the triplets to be born here.

Now they have the task of getting everybody back up north. Luckily, grandma and grandpa Falconer are travelling along, "each with a baby under his arm," says the senior Mrs. Falconer. She has another son and daughter-in-law, she says, who have just adopted a child. "Not so long ago I was wondering if we'd ever have grandchildren. Who would believe suddenly we'd have five!"

About 10 to 15% of American couples have difficulty conceiving a child, says Mary Martin, MD, co-director of the UCSF in vitro fertilization program. In vitro (literally "in glass") fertilization most frequently is used to help women with blocked fallopian tubes. After daily administration of drugs that stimulate eggs to mature, several eggs are removed from the woman's ovaries, incubated briefly, mixed with her partner's sperm in a glass dish, and then placed in her uterus after fertilization.

The UCSF program was the first in the Bay Area. Forty-three babies—including four sets of twins and three sets of triplets—have been born in the program.

Cafeteria Plans Done—and Off for Approval

The renovation plans for the Moffitt Cafeterias have been sewn up and sent to the OSHPD (Office of Statewide Health Planning and Development) for approval, says Nutrition and Dietetics Director Leon King. Once approval is received—about a six-month process—then the way will be clear to call for bids and start construction.

Currently this means we're looking at a February approval date and mid-spring construction start-up date. How long will the whole job take? About 15 months, says Leon. Lots of plans are being made for accommodating the cafeteria crowd during the construction period, but no need to talk about that quite yet. Look for future news.

Off He Goes Into the Wild Blue Yonder

Mikkel Aaland

If you know Carl Heller, you probably know him as the soft-spoken, hardworking, good-humored guy who started here 12 years ago as an administrative assistant in ACC and worked his way up to assistant director of the Medical Center over building management, hospital contract administration, environmental services, patient escort, transport services, biomedical equipment management and hospital telecommunications.

What you may not have known about Carl is that his dad was a pilot; Carl himself had a life-long interest in flying; he ultimately took it up as a hobby; and a couple of years ago he got his pilot's license. Now he plans to pursue his passion as a full-time career. His send-off was well-marked with parties and gifts, including this hat, which speaks for itself; and this headset, which, if you go by the photo, looks like it's intended to keep Carl plugged in to headquarters.

Tell a Teenager: "Careers in Health Care"

If you know any high school students who are looking for a career direction, point them in the direction of "Careers in Health Care," coming up Tuesday evening, November 17.

The program began last year as "Careers in Nursing," which attracted about 75 Bay Area students, says Catherine Wittenberg, chair for both last year's and this year's event. The students toured departments, heard presentations made by nurses from several different areas, visited booths, chatted with staff members, ate snacks and generally were provided a friendly and comprehensive introduction to a number of career options in nursing.

This year the format will be approximately the same—except that the program has expanded to include, in addition to nursing, the clinical labs, pharmacy, physical therapy, nutrition and dietetics, materiel services and respiratory care. The organizers of this event are planning for three times as many visitors as last year, and they're counting on you to bring the word home. Parents are welcome to accompany their children. Call x61848 to make a reservation.

"Entertainment '88" Has Arrived

Joyce Garabedian from the Auxiliary Office says that ever since "Entertainment '87" went off sale, people have been calling to ask when the '88 edition would be arriving. Good news: It's here. It's valid from November 2, 1987 to November 1, 1988—and like its predecessor, it costs $30 and is worth something like $20,000 (that's what the flyer says) in meals, entertainment, goods and services. You can choose from four Bay Area zones, such as the Napa-Marin-San Francisco zone. As before, $6 from each sale goes directly to the Auxiliary. Call x64906 for more information.

Yoo Hoo, Helpers: Health Fair Coming

The UCSF Children's Medical Center Health Fair, a public event of gigantic proportions, is coming up on Saturday, November 7. Last year 200 volunteers participated, and 2,000 visitors showed up. This year, 2,500 fair-goers are expected. Do we have 250 people out there who can help?

The fair, which will take place in Millberry Union from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., features many booths and activities geared toward providing information on health, disease prevention and safety for children, adolescents and their families. Volunteers are needed to help man the booths, coordinate activities and for general support. If you can help, call Volunteer Services, x61196.

P.S. Naturally, you and your children are invited to attend the fair as visitors. It's free and lots of fun for all ages. Save the date.
